

Annotated checklist and distribution of the Australasian Haliplidae (Coleoptera)

B.J. van VONDEL

Abstract

The Haliplidae (Coleoptera) of the Australasian Region are listed, and new distribution data are presented. All known localities are mapped. Phalilus bistriatus (WEHNCKE, 1880) is recorded from New South Wales for the first time.

Key words: Coleoptera, Haliplidae, Australia, New Guinea, Moluccas, New Caledonia, faunistics, distribution.

Introduction

Recently, the phylogeny of the genera and subgenera of Haliplidae was analyzed by VONDEL (2019) resulting in the upgrading of the subgenus Phalilus GUIGNOT, 1935 to genus level, and the erection of a new subgenus of Haliplus LATREILLE, 1802: Australiplus VONDEL, 2019.

Other relevant faunistic/taxonomic studies on the Australasian Haliplidae were published by VONDEL (1995), WATTS (1988), WATTS & MCRAE (2010), WATTS & HAMON (2015). Since then, various new faunistic data became available. In the “Atlas of Living Australia” (ALA 2021), a number of new records are registered, but from a limited number of collections. According to C.H.S. Watts (pers. comm.), the database of ALA needs some corrections, which will follow hereafter.

All localities known so far are listed in Tab. 2, together with their coordinates.

The Australasian Region is defined according to VONDEL (1995) and includes Australia, New Guinea, the Moluccas and New Caledonia.

Material and methods

Methods and taxonomic terms are explained in VONDEL (1997). Distribution maps were made using Google Maps.

Material reported here for the first time is originating from the following institutions:

- BMNH Natural History Museum, London, UK (C. Taylor)
BPBM Bernice P. Bishop Museum, Honolulu, Hawaii, USA (G.S. Samuelson, J.H. Boone)

Biogeography

The Australasian faunal region as treated in this paper comprises the Moluccas, New Guinea, Australia and New Caledonia. No Haliplidae have been recorded from the Solomon Islands, Vanuatu or New Zealand. All traceable records of Haliplidae from the region are listed and mapped (Fig. 1, Tab. 2). Distribution maps are provided for each species (Figs. 2–21). In Tab. 1, the total number of species is listed for each country, state or territory. Remarkably, no Haliplidae have been recorded from the Australian Capital Territory so far. Queensland, Northern Territory and Western Australia are the richest in species.

Tab. 1: List of species, and the countries, states, territories, or islands from which records are known. Specimens without detailed locality data (more specific than “Australia”) are not included.

Abbreviations: Australia: ACT = Australian Capital Territory, NSW = New South Wales, NT = Northern Territory, QLD = Queensland, SA = South Australia, TAS = Tasmania, VIC = Victoria, WA = Western Australia. Indonesia: PAP = Papua, SER = Seram. NC = New Caledonia. PNG = Papua New Guinea. + = confirmed record. ? = Phalilus fuscatus/gibbus.

Phalilus storeyi* (VONDEL, 1995)

PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED RECORDS: VONDEL (1995): Northern Territory, Humpty Doo; WATTS & HAMON (2015): “A northern species”; ALA (2021): Queensland.

NOTE: VONDEL (1995) erroneously mentioned the presence of a setiferous striole on the dorsal face of the metatibia, but in Phalilus there is in fact no such a setiferous striole (see VONDEL 2019).

DISTRIBUTION (Fig. 21): Northern Territory, Queensland.

Figs. 1–3: Distribution of: 1) all Australasian species of Haliplidae, 2) Haliplus (Australiplus) sindus, 3) Haliplus (Liaphlus) alastairi.

4

Haliplus australis

5

Haliplus ferruginipes

6

Haliplus halsei

7

Haliplus pilbaraensis

8

Haliplus signatipennis

9

Haliplus stepheni

Figs. 4–9: Distribution of: 4) Haliplus (Liaphlus) australis, 5) H. (L.) ferruginipes, 6) H. (L.) halsei, 7) H. (L.) pilbaraensis, 8) H. (L.) signatipennis, 9) H. (L.) stepheni.

10

Haliplus testudo

11

Haliplus timmsi

12

Haliplus wattsi

13

Phalilus bistriatus

14

Phalilus fortescueensis

15

Phalilus hydei

Figs. 10–15: Distribution of: 10) Haliplus (L.) testudo, 11) H. (L.) timmsi, 12) H. (L.) wattsi, 13) Phalilus bistriatus, 14) P. fortescueensis, 15) P. hydei.

16

Phalilus fuscatus

17

Phalilus gibbus

18

- Phalilus fuscatus / gibbus
- Phalilus fuscatus

19

Phalilus oberthuri

20

Phalilus pinderi

21

Phalilus storeyi

Figs. 16–21: Distribution of: 16) Phalilus fuscatus, 17) P. gibbus, 18) P. fuscatus/gibbus complex: red circles: P. fuscatus males, green circles: P. gibbus males, smaller circles: P. fuscatus or gibbus, 19) P. oberthuri, 20) P. pinderi, 21) P. storeyi.

Tab. 2: List of species, localities and references. Specimens without detailed locality data (more specific than “Australia” or e.g., “South Australia”) are not included. Coordinates are in decimal degrees.

Abbreviations: Australia: QLD = Queensland, NSW = New South Wales, NT = Northern Territory, SA = South Australia, TAS = Tasmania, VIC = Victoria, WA = Western Australia. Indonesia: PAP = Papua, SER = Seram. NC = New Caledonia. PNG = Papua New Guinea.

Acknowledgements

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all persons (listed above) who placed material at my disposal. Dr. Chris Watts (Adelaide, South Australia) is greatly acknowledged for useful information, especially on the ALA database. I thank Dr. Günther Wewalka (Vienna, Austria) for providing additional data. I acknowledge the use of the Atlas of Living Australia, grid.506668.b (<https://www.grid.ac/institutes/grid.506668.b>). Special thanks are due to Dr. Manfred A. Jäch (NMW) for considerably improving the manuscript. The Uyttenbogaart-Eliasen Foundation is thanked for financial support.
